

Academic Success Program (ASP)

The Academic Success Program (ASP) provides instructional supports to meet the unique learning needs of individual students. At UC Academy, we are proud of our wholistic approach to student learning, encouraging the use of multiple modalities in the classroom to best serve the individual. The goal of this support is to equip students to achieve their full potential in an inclusive, general education classroom environment. Participating students are not necessarily identified with a learning disability. Typical learning needs served within this program fall under the categories of Speech and Language Impairment, Autism Spectrum Disorder, Auditory/Visual Processing Disorder and ADHD.

The chart below is designed to offer clarity with regard to what kind of communication and documentation is generally required at each tier level. More communication and documentation may be necessary, depending on the situation. This chart does not cover the SST process, which may be required for advancing to a higher tier or adding accommodations.
